"If I have seen further, it is by standing on the shoulders of giants."

Why Reference

- Evidence
- Credibility
- Validation
- Professional
- Polite
- Plagiarism

What to reference

- Direct and indirect quotations
- Paraphrased text, ideas and data
- Facts and figures
- Diagrams and other media
- Anything from another source

How to reference

- Keep a record of where you found source material
- Use the required referencing style
 - Harvard in this case
- Identify sourced material using in-text citations
 - (Author surname, Year of publication)
- Provide a full reference to the item within a list of references
 - The format of these depends on the nature of the source

Useful Tools

- RefWorks
- Mendeley
- Google Scholar

Exercise - Assimilate an idea

- Paraphrase the following:

“Consider a future device for individual use, which is a sort of mechanized private file and library. It needs a name, and, to coin one at random, 'memex' will do. A memex is a device in which an individual stores all his books, records, and communications, and which is mechanized so that it may be consulted with exceeding speed and flexibility. It is an enlarged intimate supplement to his memory.”

Exercise - Now reference it

- Now create a full reference for the paraphrased idea, suitable for inclusion in a Harvard style reference list, at the end of a paper.
- Is there anything you need to know before doing this?

Exercise - Getting there

- This is the article's BibTex record from Google Scholar

@article{bush1945we,
  title={As we may think},
  author={Bush, Vannevar},
  journal={The Atlantic Monthly},
  volume={176},
  number={1},
  pages={101--108},
  year={1945}

- It tells us everything we need to know about the article, except that The Atlantic Monthly is a magazine (or journal)

Exercise - Putting the reference together

- The BibTex data for the article

  title={As we may think},
  author={Bush, Vannevar},
  journal={The Atlantic Monthly},
  volume={176},
  number={1},
  pages={101--108},
  year={1945}

- Harvard referencing style journal entry requirements

Author, A. (year of publication) 'Title of article', Title of Journal, volume [abbreviated to vol.], number [abbreviated to no.], page number(s) [abbreviated to p. or pp.].

Exercise - Cite the reference in your text

- Example paraphrase text without citation, academic plagiarism:

The term memex was coined in 1945 by Vannevar Bush who described it as a mechanised supplement to human memory that can be consulted quickly, in a flexible manner, to access a private library of books, records and communications.

Exercise - Finished examples

- The paraphrased text might read:

The term memex was coined in 1945 by Vannevar Bush who described it as a mechanised supplement to human memory that can be consulted quickly, in a flexible manner, to access a private library of books, records and communications (Bush, 1945).

or

Vannevar Bush (1945) coined the term memex, describing it as a mechanised supplement to human memory that can be consulted quickly, in a flexible manner, to access a private library of books, records and communications.

- The full reference, in the reference list at the end of the paper, arranged in alphabetic order of author surnames, should read:

Bush, V., 1945. 'As we may think'. The Atlantic Monthly, vol. 176, no. 1, pp.101-108.

Prepare early

- Getting references in order for a paper takes time
- Even when you are experienced
- Familiarise yourself with the tools and format
- Prepare your references as you go

Simply providing a list of URLs of the websites that you found the items on is not sufficient, even if they are formatted correctly.
